

– OPEN COMMITTEE ROLE – CLEANTECH CHALLENGE COMMITTEE MEMBER

UCL Enterprise Society aims to promote, foster and support entrepreneurship among UCL's postgraduate community through networking opportunities with industry experts and investors, exposure to UCL's world-renowned research facilities through guided tours and special events like the CleanTech Challenge.

The London CleanTech Challenge is a European-wide student competition hosted by University College London and London Business School. It brings together students from technology and business "to propose new opportunities for potential new products and services in the 'clean technology' arena." In 2011 the CleanTech Challenge had over 100 participants. More information can be found at www.cleantechnologychallenge.com

Key Duties

3-5 committee members will be chosen to work in the CleanTech Challenge team in planning the 2011/2012 CleanTech Challenge. You will work as a team with UCL and LBS students to ensure a successful event. Some tasks may include contacting event sponsors, getting in contact with participating international universities, marketing, reaching out to mentors or initiate a speaker event (dependent on which subteam you will be working in).

Requirements

- Experience working as a part of a team
- Excellent organizational skills
- Interest in the clean-tech industry
- Availability of several hours per week between December 2011 and May 2012

Benefits

- Gain valuable organizational experience
- Engage with LBS MBA students
- Plentiful networking opportunities
- Being engaged in one of the most recommended student competitions within Europe
- Access to mentors and leaders in the CleanTech industry

To apply for this position email your CV and a word statement of motivation to:
join@uclenterprise.org